Kate's Take... From the CEO's Desk this Month

Some of you may be wondering just where your August newsletter went—and if it went missing in the post? No it didn't, I assure you.

Although at times we were so stretched these past two months (with over 160 new members joining GRG in that time bringing our total membership to just under 4,000 member families nationwide), that I sometimes despaired as to whether we would find the time to get this issue out to you! It has been all hands on deck with our National Support Office team flat out responding to new member support needs.

A special mention at this point must go to our indefatigable Tricia Corin. As our Specialist Advocate on Financial Support and Benefits entitlements, Tricia has been working extremely hard for members as always, to address the financial support needs of our new and existing clients dealing with Work and Income.

Sadly, in amongst it though, Tricia tragically lost her much loved brother Kevin Corin, an experienced motorsport photographer who died in a freak accident at Hanmer Springs earlier this month in which a rally car spun off the track.

On behalf of all of us we extend Tricia and her family our heartfelt condolences and sorrow for their loss at this very sad time for them all.

Support Group Check-in

If you are reading this email in print now, you will probably notice that although it is later than usual, it is a little thicker this time. With four extra pages this edition for August-September it gives us the opportunity to feature the many heroes in our midst and the work they do on the GRG Support Group Check-in pages.

Our local volunteer Support Group Coordinators do marvellous work with our members throughout the country and they are the life-blood of GRG and its work advocating for and empowering members in their lives, in every way they can.

They provide support, advice, friendship, laughs and compassion for what so many of you experience with the highs and lows involved in parenting your mokopuna and tamariki. Many of our Support Coordinators have also become experienced and strong advocates fronting up to the local WINZ or Oranga Tamariki office providing one-to-one support or advocacy for members when they need it most to ensure that they get the financial or professional support they are entitled to. In other circumstances it is just to be there as a support person at family group conferences or at the Family Court.

Some of our Support Groups hold regular information and educational meetings with external speakers on many and varied topics of interest. Organised whanau outings and family days are also a social extension of the group, ensuring that carers and families are not isolated and alone on their path.

If you haven't joined a Support Group in your area yet, or you haven't had the opportunity to connect with your local Coordinator even if for telephone advice; please check out pages 6, 7 and 12 for further information and get in touch with your local Support Coordinator.

If there isn't one in your area, but you would like further support, please don't hesitate to call our National Support Office on 0800 472 637 or 09 418 3753 to speak to one of our National Support Office team.

Introducing Kate Mace

This month we are delighted to welcome the newest member of our National Support team; Kate Mace our Outreach Community Advocate.

Kate has worked in a variety of roles as a social worker and case manager since 2002, including health, care and protection and education.

Most recently she has been working for Barnados and the Ministry of Education as a facilitator with the Intensive Wraparound service, working with children and their families with learning and behavioural needs across school, home and community.

Kate holds a Bachelor of Arts (History and Political Science) (2000) and a Graduate Diploma in Social Work with Distinction from the University of Canterbury (2002).

As a Mum to two young children, the move to GRG combines an opportunity to work in an area she is passionate about with a role that is close to home and family orientated. Kate is excited to be part of the team providing advocacy and support to GRG's members. She works in the National Support Office in Auckland, Mon-Thurs 9am-2pm but is available by referral through the National Support Office to provide advice and/or advocacy for members nationwide.

Parenting Support and Education

Recently I caught up with Raewyn Mortensen, the Parenting Place's Toolbox and Family Coaching Manager. A few years ago the Grandparenting Toolbox DVD set and Guide was put together in a joint initiative between GRG and the Parenting Place. These DVDs are no longer being produced, but we have a box with around 70 of these still available in our office, including the Guide if you are a member interested in obtaining a copy? Email us with your name and address on Office@grg.org.nz for a copy to be sent to you.

We are planning new initiatives for you to develop your learning as a carer to complement our existing SALT 4 Caregivers™ workshop programme and build upon the Grandparents Toolbox programme.

In the meantime, we encourage you to visit the Parenting Place's website for a full list of their courses and options that are also available.

Space for you and your baby (available in Auckland and Wellington) has recently joined the Parenting Place and they are encouraging any grandparents or whanau carers caring for newborns and infants in the first year to get in touch and learn about what supports and learning programmes are available.

Family Justice Law Reform Review

It is a perennial problem that has existed for at least as long as GRG as an organisation has been advocating for the needs and interests of grandparent carers.

Legal aid and equitable access to justice!

Not a day goes by in our office, that we don't learn of the extremely challenging circumstances being faced by another grandparent or whanau carer who has stepped up to provide someone else's child or several children with a safe, secure and loving home in traumatic circumstances. Most often the circumstances involve parents incapable of parenting their children because of drug abuse (76% of our members), neglect, family violence, inability to cope, alcohol abuse or mental illness.

But while those traumatic circumstances leading to the children being placed in their grandparents care ought to be the beginning of the healing process for the children especially —unfortunately so many grandparents are expected to go it alone with little support for their role as the carers of these children as parents on a benefit battle it out in the Family Court on legal aid (with no prospect of ever paying it back), while the grandparent must fund their own case. Usually they are not eligible for legal aid or if they are, they face statutory legal aid charges against their homes to repay the cost of any defence after the fact.

In many cases we also hear of grandparents paying tens of thousands of dollars in legal fees from their retirement savings or earnings.

It is always a case of competing interests, motivations and agenda when a dispute over the care of a child comes before the court. But too often there is an imbalance and there isn't an equitable and equal access to justice for all.

The 2014 reforms to the Family Court made significant changes to the family justice system including introducing Family Dispute Resolution and removing lawyers from the early stages of some Family Court proceedings.

The Minister of Justice appointed an Independent Panel in August to review these reforms and tasked them with examining the effectiveness of the 2014 family justice reforms.

In particular the Terms of Reference for the Review include: considering the extent to which the family justice system: a) is child-centred and provides the services necessary to ensure the child's welfare and best interests are paramount; b) is accessible, with consideration of barriers to access including financial, disability, cultural, linguistic, geographic, and institutional (such as the lack of information about how the system works and its purpose).

To read the full Terms of Reference please click here or go to the Ministry of Justice's website and to read the background consultation paper titled “Have Your Say on the Family Justice System” click here. [Note: All of these links are also accessible from our www.GRG.org.nz home page].

The Panel wants to hear the experiences of grandparents and caregivers who have used the family justice system to understand what is working and what can be improved and we encourage you to take this opportunity.

To make a submission, you can submit your feedback by completing this online submission form. It is an online version of the consultation paper that lets you fill in your answers as you go.

You can also share your story with the Independent Panel using the Korero Mai \(Tell Us Your Story\) online tool. It does not ask any specific questions – and you can share with them whatever you want to. You can do this as well as, or instead of, responding to the questions in the consultation paper and online submission form.

Alternatively, you can write your own submission and email it to FamilyJusticeReforms@justice.govt.nz. We would recommend that you read the Terms of Reference document and look at the online submission form to help you tailor your submission to ensure that it is relevant to the scope of the Panel’s review.

The Panel have also asked GRG if we have any members who would be willing to talk to the panel on these issues at the following locations. They are limited to 1-2 members in each area so please email CEO@grg.org.nz with your name, contact details and the location below if you are interested in this opportunity.

- Gisborne (Fri 5 October)
- Hamilton (Mon 8 October)
- Napier (Tue 9 October)
- Wellington (Thu 18 and Fri 19 October)
- Invercargill (Tue 23 October)
- Christchurch (Thu 25 October)
- Nelson (Fri 26 October)
- Kaitaia (Mon 29 October)

We will be meeting with the panel on 31 October in Auckland to make a submission on behalf of GRG. If you are an Auckland based grandparent/whanau care member of GRG and would like to talk to us about this please get in contact with me on Kate@grg.org.nz.

Flying the flag for GRG!

Women’s Suffrage is celebrating 125 years since NZ women first got the vote and on Saturday 22nd September, Shirley Afoa and Anne Doddrell, our Papakura and Pukekohe Support Coordinators took part in the Pukekohe celebrations.

Taking part in the small Expo they flew the flag for GRG with pamphlets and newsletters and answered lots of questions from those who stopped by to discuss their concerns or circumstances as carers.

At 1:00pm there was a parade down the Main Street in which together with Shirley and Anne were two of Shirley’s granddaughters and Anne and Richard’s grandson Luke (in the red shirt in the photo below) also took part.

Carers Alliance Caring about Continence

Continence issues affect 1.1 million New Zealanders.

That is one in four New Zealanders, of all ages and all walks of life affected by bladder and/or bowel problems.

The physical, emotional, and financial impact can be devastating for people living with incontinence and the World Health Organisation has recognised it as a major health issue worldwide.

The financial cost for urinary incontinence has been estimated at 3,565 US dollars per year per person.

Carers NZ want to hear from you and your families, to help put together a national strategy for action to help health agencies to formulate ways to offer better solutions for New Zealanders.

During the months of September/October, information is being gathered by Carers NZ on how it affects people and their families in New Zealand.

If incontinence issues affects you or your family, please take the time to participate in the survey by clicking the link below.

<https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/incontinencesurveynz>

Did you know that there are approximately, 48,669 boys aged between 7-14 years of age living in solo parent families in New Zealand?

Around 8,030 of them have no contact at all with their father.

Big Buddy is a registered charitable organisation that “works on the simple philosophy that boys develop more courage and confidence in their lives when they have a positive male role model to learn from”, and who can support them to become well rounded men.

“Big Buddy believes boys learn through modelling and while there are many exceptions, in general terms, a boy without a male role model to assist his development can be inherently at risk.”

The Big Buddy mentor commits to spend 2-3 hours a week with a boy or adolescent (Little Buddy, aged 7-14) for at least a year, and the Big Buddy vision is that this will grow to a life-long relationship.

Big Buddy currently operates in Auckland, Wellington and Hamilton and they encourage any grandparents that could benefit from having a mentor for their boy to get in touch with them.

For further information on their mentor programme, criteria and selection process please see their website at www.bigbuddy.org.nz or you can also click on the link here to a PDF information sheet.

I've been thinking...

Diane Vivian, Founding Trustee

Knock, knock, can I come in?

So lovely to visit you today, yes you. Pop on the kettle and let's have a cuppa. I am visiting you today for a very special reason, I just want to say how wonderful you are, yes YOU.

You may say why? I'm not special, but indeed you are! I know just how special and wonderful you are as I have known you for a long time. 'Pass the milk please...'

Have you heard the saying, love can overcome all? Well you epitomise that and I just want to acknowledge how powerful that is particularly in our raising circumstances. It can take one to the depths of despair and raise one to the highest heights. Not award winning stuff, (although God knows you deserve it) but a deep soul touching height. But in reality it just does not quite cut the mustard. Yes it will give our wee ones grounding and values and make them feel accepted and loved . BUT.....

Some of you have experienced life changing situations that would challenge the strongest of characters, many of which would throw their hands in the air and say, 'I give up' BUT not you. 'What do you mean'? (I see your quizical look) I shall explain.

When this raising situation comes knocking at your door, many are shocked, some expecting it and some not surprised, but from there you enter unsheltered waters, often knowing not what to expect, where to turn. You may have Social Workers involved, many do not. Your whole world is turned upside down, but you have a thinking, rational adult brain. Not so the children who need you. Your nurturing nature comes into play, they are your main focus now, as it should be....but....

Very quickly comes reality. Traumatized children, access visits, financial worries, Lawyers, Court, harassment, threats in some cases, Social Workers dictating what you can and cannot do with the wee ones. Family dynamics can spiral out of control (not just from the parents of these children either), one becomes tired and unsure of where to turn, and others judge you, but help is there. One just needs to know that the help is right, factual and concise. One is beginning to spin with the enormity of all of this. And it is enormous!

Then happens the cold hard facts, it comes at a time when one is struggling with it all. Some sell their homes and downgrade so they have money to pay legal fees as they were not able to access Legal Aid. Others can, but they either have caveats put on their homes or are required to pay this back with interest. Some cannot access anything and go into huge debt. Many use the new system to represent themselves and we stand in awe, but for many this is just too much. We understand. Some are uprooted to move to another area for safety reasons. Some have been evicted from their rentals, due to overcrowding with extra children and having to rent bigger residences at an astronomical cost. Others are unjustly turned down for financial help from MSD. Some partners leave due to the stress of the situation and sadly some die. Ongoing stress from birth parents trying to take you back to Court time and time again or threatening to do so. Rampant drug issues with the parents are frightening. Many stealing from the family home and the wee ones at access visits. To appear in Court against your own child you gave birth to and loved is an extremely hard thing to do.

May I give some solace to settle your soul? "They are the adult. They have a voice and a choice. The wee children have no voice or no choice, so you must be their voice."

What an emotional roller coaster.

Dealing with wee and not so wee children/ young people who are volatile, violent, stealing, acting out, showing sexualised behaviours, ADHD. RAD, PTSD and many other conditions, which lead to expensive therapy, or if one is lucky free via Community (hard to find). Some are dealing with special needs children and others with severe special needs, blind, deaf, tube fed, paraplegic, loss of limb's and severely mentally unwell children. Children who are suffering the effects of substance abuse either before birth or after. Police are often involved in our lives and indeed the children's lives.

Many of you have lost all your savings, retirement savings and indeed some; their jobs, but you do this, you do all of this for the children who need you so desperately.

Grief is also an important part of this whole equation. Death of your child via medical, accident, murder or suicide also plays a part. Grief of what one expected of their own child to become, a great Mum or Dad to their child. To be a normal grand/whanau with all the joys. But sadly in our circumstances this was not to be. Grief of your past life and what was to be all play an important part. Not only must you take care of your grief issues but also the grief for the children you raise.

Now let's filter this down to the children we care for under all of the above pressures. So many of these children due to past experiences have issues, some are excluded/stood down from school. Yes even in primary school, carers have to fight the school system for teachers' aides and other speciality services or help. For medical treatment, hospital visits, therapy visits, not to mention all the extracurricular activities. No wonder we think you are just wonderful.

So whatever you see in my thinking to a lesser or greater degree, please know we are in awe of you for all you do. You are simply wonderful and indeed our hero's. We salute you and honour you. Well done YOU! I awhi you and wrap my arms around you and whisper, you are just so special. Thank you for letting me visit and you make fabulous scones!

I See You

I see you running your child to therapy, when the others are off to football practice or ballet;

I see you slipping out of the conversation when your friends are all chiming in about their child's milestones and grades;

I see you constantly juggling appointments and meetings;

I see you sitting at your computer for hours, researching what you can do to help your child;

I see you cringe when you hear people moan about what seems like petty trivial things;

I see you spread thin, but still going the extra mile for your family, day after day;

I see you digging for depths of strength you never thought you had;

I see you showing appreciation to the teachers, therapists and medical professionals who serve your child, and support you;

I see you rising early in the morning to do it all again after another hectic night;

I see you hanging onto the end of your rope for dear life;

I know you feel invisible like no one notices any of it, but I want you to know I notice you;

I see you relentlessly pushing onwards, even when it seems impossible;

I see you keep choosing to do everything in your power to give this child everything you can, always;

What you're doing matters, it's worth it;

On those days where you wonder if you can do it another minute, I want you to know I see you, and you're beautiful!

I want you to know you aren't alone, I want you to know love is what matters most, and you have that nailed!

And on those days you have breakthroughs, those times when the hard work pays off and success is yours to cherish, I see you then too, and I'm proud of you!

Whichever day today is, you're worthy, you're good and I see you!

A 5yr Old Recognizes her Personality Problem!

Miss 5, our very active, impulsive and volatile granddaughter, has from a very early age been prone to fly into rages and become physical to say the least.

We used time-out to cool off as the strategy to help her work on her problem. She got to the stage where when she felt rage coming on she would go to the bottom step of the stairs and work on calming down.

When she had calmed down we found she easily escalated again so we had a timer there marked at the two minute mark so that she could further cool off.

We found that a further cooling down period made the remedy last and there was no further escalation once she left time out. This is not a time-out lesson.

She now tells us when she feels angry and she certainly looks it but in general she doesn't tantramise or hit us anymore.

The other day she overheard mention of personality problems as part of adult conversation.

As per usual she put in her two cents worth and it was funny. "I have a personality problem," she said. "I get angry." Wow. Both awareness and humility!

Quotable Quotes on Grandparenting

Perfect love sometimes does not come until the first grandchild.

Welsh Proverb

Becoming a grandmother is wonderful. One moment you're just a mother. The next you are all-wise and prehistoric.

Pam Brown

God couldn't be everywhere, so he made grandparents!

Anon

[Grand]parenting is a constant battle between going to bed to catch up on some sleep or staying awake to finally get some alone time.

Anon

This one, we know is definitely one you can relate to if you are a GRG!

On the seventh day God rested. His grandchildren must have been out of town!

Gene Perret

If you have a story from your grandparenting/kin care journey you'd like to share in our Grand's Reflection, please email us at Admin@grg.org.nz.

Please be alert if not for the children you raise but others who visit. A member writes:

"I left him at home aged 16 and allowed one mate then another arrived, he raided my medicine cupboard and took 6 co-deine tabs and drank all the cough mixture.

Found him on floor vomiting and towels covered in red vomit. DEAR GOD HE COULD HAVE DIED!!! Please be cautious about any medication being left around, we do not know who our charges associate with. With this illegal drugs epidemic, one must be very alert. Lock them away. Needless to say, this kid of 16 will be banned from our home."
